"College students need a way to track the exact amount of meal/retail swipes they have so they can keep track and not have to order food to see how many swipes they have."